J&C Joel open new office in South Africa

As part of the J&C Joel strategy to always put their customers first and knowing the importance of being on the ground in a certain area, they are happy to announce the opening of J&C Joel South Africa cc.

James Wheelwright CEO, 'At J&C Joel we've had a long history in Africa and we now feel it is the right time to have a presence in the region in the form of J&C Joel South Africa. Africa is an exciting future market for the Theatre and Entertainment Industry.'

James was happy to formalise the opening of J&C Joel South Africa with Declan Randall (one of South Africa's leading lighting designers and theatre consultants), their South African partner at J&C Joel HQ in Halifax England. (see image above)

For the last ten years, Barry Snow has been J&C Joel's representative in South Africa and he is now becoming their full time General Manager.

Barry started his career in the live theatre in the early 1960's and worked for many years for the Arts Councils in South Africa in the technical field. He first met John Wheelwright when he was in the employ of the SA State Theatre as the head of Stage Services and became the J&C Joel representative in South Africa when the State Theatre was closed in 2000.

Barry is looking forward to uplifting the profile of J&C Joel in south and southern Africa and feels that, with his long experience in the theatre and live events industry, and in collaboration with Declan Randall and his staff can make good inroads into the industry.

Barry and his team will be offering the same J&C Joel quality service that their customers are used to and as ever they will have a full range of products on the ground of Johannesburg.

Please feel free to give the J&C Joel team a call for whatever your next event will be in 2010.
